

Himanshu M.

Assistant Professor
MBBS, MMS - International Health (Sweden)

Primary interest

- Maternal and Child Health : - Nutrition, growth, Systems approach to prevent mortality
- Nutrition and Metabolism: - Nutritional programming of growth and metabolism, foetal programming of adult diseases, Nutritional transition and food security
- Quantitative research methodology in global public health – Advanced health metrics, mediation analysis, and modelling
- Health Systems – Global health macro-economics, Frame work approach to global health systems, Secular trend analysis of health data and program evaluation

Secondary interest

- Sexual and reproductive diseases
- Infectious diseases epidemiology – Tuberculosis, Diarrhoea, Malaria, Pneumonia
- Health program monitoring

A medical doctor trained in Bangalore and International Health professional trained in Uppsala University, Sweden. Recipient of Kishore Vygnanic Prothsahan Yojna Fellowship in 2004. Has passion for research in global health and comes with an inquisitive mind and desire for academic expertise in aforesaid areas. Previous research exposure has been in Endocrinology and Oncology with two publications in international journals and 2 papers and 5 poster presentations in National and International conferences. Exposure to clinical trials has been through monitoring multi-centre drug trials and participation as co-investigator in an Oncology drug trial. Has experience in community engagement through various health initiatives of NGOs. Also a founder member of two NGOs, working in areas of primary education and health.

A faculty of RGIPH & CDC since inception and assistant editor of RGUHS National Journal of Public Health since its launch. Apart from post-graduate teaching, dwelled in research of 'equity based evaluation of RMNCH + A program outcomes'. Oral presentation of pilot work is due in July 2016 (3rd EPHP 2016). Also been a team member developing medical and public health approach to burns management in Karnataka and institute's nodal person for developing organised screening program of cervical cancers. Was invitee to WHO national consultation on Global action plan for health system response to violence against women. As for publications - authored a chapter on 'Travel Medicine' in a publication of Karnataka Medical Council. Three papers are in consideration publications in peer-reviewed journal.